

Editor of the Year 2025

Sarah Bailey

As a freelance editor specializing in many fiction and nonfiction genres, Sarah Bailey loves helping authors learn about the publishing industry and access editorial services at a wide range of price points. She is also proud to serve as editor-in-chief for Inkpot, the League of Utah Writers' literary magazine.

Sarah holds a degree in Writing Studies from the University of Utah and a publishing certificate from the Denver Publishing Institute. Before launching her business, she interned as a copyeditor for Wasatch Magazine and an acquisitions and developmental editor for Future House Publishing. When not writing, editing, or listening to audiobooks, Sarah can be found walking her dog, planning her next travel adventure, or helping one of her five kids find their shoes

Connect with Sarah at www.baileyediting.com and on Instagram under @bailey.editing.