

Volunteer of the Year 2024

Candace Thomas

Candace Thomas has been a steady, dependable, and professional presence on the League's board for many years. During the past year she has stepped up to teach at both the Pre-Quill and Quills Conferences at the organizers' invitation, despite the demands of balancing her board position with her full-time job, her family, and her own writing career. And on top of all of it, she was working her way through a college degree. She has shown exemplary service in elevating the League's name in the community through her consistent outreach as our Marketing Chair, with a special commendation for her vital contributions to the success of Utah Authors Day. Candace is an award-winning author of poetry, young adult fantasy, and romantic comedy. Check out her writing at candacejthomas.com.
